

Allies Are Urged To Launch Joint Diplomatic Drive

"London Express" Says
Russians and Slavs Are Ripe for Propaganda

Would Have U. S. Join
Declares Conquered Nations on Verge of Revolt Against German Tyranny

LONDON, June 8.—The Entente Allies have a great opportunity for a combined diplomatic offensive with a view to explaining to Russia and the Austrians what an Allied victory will mean for them, in the opinion of "The Daily Express." The newspaper calls upon the Allies to translate vague references to self-determination into concrete terms and to let their proclamation appear above the signature of the United States, as well as the European allies.

"The German jackboot is heavy and the foot within is ruthless and vicious. The foot stamps and the boot grinds, but men are sometimes made of hard metal. The crushing may be incomplete and may stimulate resentment sooner than subjection," "The Express" says.

"These reflections are suggested by the present conditions in Russia and Austria," it continues. "The better the details of the Brest-Litovsk treaty are understood the more general are Russia's discontent and hostility. She is out of the war, but remains in the front rank of the peoples who abhor Prussian tyranny with all their souls. A patient people grown familiar with injustice, the Russians are capable of steady, passive resistance, daring up now and again into blind revolt, which already is worrying their German conquerors."

An Amerstam dispatch on June 1 said that sixty persons were killed and hundreds injured in a fire and resultant explosions in a Ukrainian munitions depot at Smerintz, west of the Lawra River. Jassy, the Rumanian capital, is about ten miles from the Ukrainian border.

Russians Hope Allies Will Win and Aid in Rebuilding of Nation

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Hope for a complete victory over Germany is expressed in a communication received by President Wilson to-day from the Russian-American Chamber of Commerce, at Moscow. The Russian people, it is declared, rely on the economic support Allies for the reconstruction of the power of Russia.

The chamber is composed of leading Russian and American business men. Its president is N. Gotchko. The communication, sent on the occasion of the death of American Consul General Summers, paid a tribute to his "noble efforts in the great enterprise of strengthening the friendly relations between the people of the United States and Russia," and added:

"The Russian people, after being inflicted with such serious wounds in such a tragic manner, temporarily paralyzing our country, firmly relies upon actual support from the Allies in an economical sense, which may in the future be of great importance in the restoration of the power of Russia, so she again may find her in the ranks of her friend and allies in defence of the ideals of humanity, righteousness and liberty so roughly trampled under foot."

Y. M. C. A. Eagle Hut Officially Open To-day

Bishop Greer and James W. Gerard to Take Part in Bryant Park Exercises

Eagle Hut, the Young Men's Christian Association canteen for soldiers and sailors in Bryant Park, will be opened officially to-day. It was opened unofficially yesterday, for the doors and windows were open and you can no more keep a soldier or sailor out of an Eagle Hut in Bryant Park than you can when it stands on the fields of Flanders or Picardy's Plain. The new Y. M. C. A. canteen is exactly the same as the hundreds of similar institutions that organization has opened in France.

Packed inside the hut, besides a canteen that provides good food things to eat to the square foot than any other eating place in all New York, are games, writing desks, music and books—in fact, most everything that a lonely soldier wants in the way of recreation. In addition, there is an information desk, where every question a stranger in New York is likely to ask, is answered. The chief function of the information desk, however, is to direct inquirers to places of amusement and to find them comfortable sleeping quarters.

Bryant Park's Eagle Hut was suggested by the success of one opened in London recently. Y. M. C. A. workers found there was as much need for a place of its kind in the heart of a great city as in the battlefields.

The official opening is set for 2 o'clock this afternoon. Bishop Greer, James W. Gerard and Ethel Barrymore are to make short addresses.

The first open air canteen to be conducted by the Mayor's Committee of Women on National Defence was opened yesterday at Fortieth Street and Fifth Avenue for the rest and refreshment of nurses and fighting men. Three hundred women volunteers already have been enrolled by Mrs. George Ethridge, captain of the canteen workers, some of whom are Mrs. Oliver Bridgman, Mrs. D. G. Reid, Mrs. J. Allen Townsend, Mrs. Robert Watson, Jr., Mrs. Julian Gerard, Mrs. Maurice Wormser and Mrs. Harry Ingalls.

Cruiser U-Boats Fail To Meet Expectations

PARIS, Friday, June 7.—The new type of German submarine cruisers accomplishes little, according to an official note commenting on German undersea boats. Exact information relative to the operations of two of these boats which left Germany at the end of 1917, cruised as far as the equator and were absent for four months, shows they accounted for only 29,000 tons of shipping.

This was equal to only one day's total loss from submarines in April of the same year. At this rate Germany would require sixty submarine cruisers at sea simultaneously to inflict the same loss as that visited upon shipping by submarines in European waters in a month.

"But Germany cannot maintain more than twenty of these boats," says the official note. "Since the Allies destroy submarines faster than they are built. However, if they sink few ships, the submarines operating in European and American waters are useful, because their cargo space enables them to bring back to Germany valuable materials which are totally lacking there."

Urges N. Y. Appropriation
WASHINGTON, June 8.—Because of the importance of New York harbor as a naval base, President Wilson, in a letter sent to-day to Senator Smith of South Carolina, urged early consideration of the House bill appropriating for the lighthouse service and providing $100,000 for the improvement and enlargement of the general lighthouse depot at Tompkinsville, Staten Island.

Coney Island in Full Blast Despite Order for "Lights-Out"

Coney Island, its various attractions lost in shadows and nothing to pierce the darkness except the glow from a limited number of street lights, last night again opened its gates and attempted to do business against great odds.

Earlier in the day Samuel Gumpertz, president of the Coney Island Business Men's Association, announced that managers of the Island resorts would close their places unless they were permitted to turn on the lights, at least on Saturday and Sunday nights.

"Running Coney Island without lights is like trying to run a furnace without coal," said Mr. Gumpertz. "It's impossible."

Mr. Gumpertz's Change of Heart
Mr. Gumpertz, however, had a decided change of heart after an interview with Police Commissioner Enright. The Commissioner declared he would not rescind any part of his order, and intimated that if Coney Island wanted to shut up shop, that was the business of Coney Island.

So Mr. Gumpertz went back to Feltman's Hotel along about the time the shades of evening are supposed to gather and told the other business men what the Commissioner had said.

"Oh, well, we might as well take another chance and keep open," volunteered William Hepp, of Luna Park. And they did.

Despite the darkness and the gloom, thousands of persons went to the island last night. The young people didn't seem to miss the lights a bit.

Coney Island business men, who asked for the repeal of the "lights out" order on the ground that they would face bankruptcy if it were continued much longer, were particularly anxious yesterday to learn where the order originated. Some insisted it was a police "whim," while others believed the order came from Washington.

Commissioner Enright set them at ease by telling them the request for the order came from Washington. In support of his statement he showed letters from General Mann and other United States officers.

Although the fourth night of the order found all New York in blackness, cities along the Jersey coast were lighted. Only the more important display signs were ordered darkened in Jersey City. In the business section shop signs and all street lights were burning. Broadway apparently is becoming accustomed to the nightly gloom and continues to take the order philosophically.

Last night Commissioner Enright was unable to say when the ban on lights would be lifted.

No Trace of U-Boat Found
Along New England Coast

BOSTON, June 8.—Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood, commandant of the First Naval District, declared to-day there had been no evidence of submarine activity along the New England coast. Investigation of a report by a fisherman near Portland that he had seen the periscope of a submarine showed, Admiral Wood said, that it was the mast of a small schooner abandoned and burned.

The captain of a steamer about the same time reported sighting a craft low in the water and pending word from scout patrols sent out to investigate, vessels, it was explained, were held up temporarily.

All were permitted to proceed, it was stated, after it was found that no submarines had been sighted.

Vinland Bombed by U-Boat Commander;
Crew Adrift 48 Hours

CAPE MAY, N. J., June 8.—The nineteen survivors of the Norwegian steamer Vinland, sunk last Wednesday by a German submarine sixty-five miles off the Virginia Capes, left the government naval station here late today for New York. All were members of the Vinland's crew and none of them speaks English. No one was allowed to see them until they emerged from the barracks and rushed aboard their train.

It was learned, however, that when the Vinland was attacked Wednesday evening the commander of the U-boat gave the crew half an hour to get off and then bombed the ship, sending it to the bottom. The men, who are Norwegian or Swedes, drifted about in a small boat nearly forty-eight hours before they were picked up by an American destroyer.

Chased by Submarine,
Ship Returns to Port

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 8.—An American steamer loaded with foodstuffs put back to port here to-day and reported she had been chased by a submarine. The ship's captain was said to have requested the naval authorities to arm his vessel that he might proceed again.

The captain is said to have told naval officers that the submarine was sighted off the Virginia Capes. Before torpedoes could be dispatched with any accuracy of aim, the steamship turned toward this port, leaving the submarine behind.
